Gulf High School teacher and coach Travis DeWalt was named a Sams Club Teacher of the Year on May 4, 2004.

Mr. DeWalt teaches English and is the head wrestling coach. He and his fourth period students learned of the award when Mr. Imerson and representatives from Sams Club came into his class with a oversize check for $1000 made payable to Gulf High School, a Sams Club Teacher of the Year vest, and a cake.

Mr. DeWalt joined the Gulf faculty in 2000. As head wrestling coach, he completely turned around the program. Gulf was 0-14 the season before he took over, but the Bucs won nine dual meets in the next season, more than in the previous three years combined. He is also an assistant football coach.

DeWalt is a 1990 graduate of Gulf, where as a student he was a state wrestling champion. He then went on to become a three-time NAIA All-American and team MVP at Briar Cliff College in Sioux City, Iowa. His 121-20 record made him the most victorious wrestler in the school's history.

The Wal-Mart Teacher of the Year program annually recognizes thousands of outstanding educators across the country. Customers have the opportunity to nominate a teacher of their choice each year through an in-store nomination and balloting process, which takes place during the month of February. One outstanding teacher is recognized in each of Wal-Mart Store and Sam's Club each year. Each winning teacher is recognized on National Teacher's Day (May 4), with a $1,000 grant that is donated back to the teacher's school.
